2019 surveillance of Lower urinary tract symptoms in men: management (NICE CG97)

The Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Glasgow although based in Glasgow represents Fellows and Members throughout the United Kingdom. While NICE has a remit for England, many of the recommendations are applicable to all devolved nations including Scotland. They should be considered by the relevant Ministers of the devolved governments.

The college sent this out expert reviewer.

The consultation included the following questions:

1. Do you agree with the proposal not to update the guideline?

Please could let us know if you agree or disagree (yes/no) and provide with your comments regarding the same

Our reviewer disagreed, and felt that the guideline should be updated.

There has been new evidence by way of publications on the outcome of several new procedures such as UroLift®, Rezum®, Aquablation® and PAE (Prostate Artery Embolisation). These are not addressed at all in Section 1.5 of CG97, and the evidence base for using these procedures should be discussed and form part of the updated guidelines.

2. Do you have any comments on areas excluded from the scope of the guideline?

Please could let us know if you agree or disagree (yes/no) and also provide with your comments regarding the same

As above.

3. Do you have any comments on equalities issues?

Please could let us know if you agree or disagree (yes/no) and also provide with your comments regarding the same

No equalities issues.
